Wonderful work, Sara. You provide a clear example of how GO's cannot only appropriately link to content/prior knowledge, but also how they can be done elegantly and creatively. It is obvious your skill with the Photoshop tool. You provide appropriate annotations, even including direct quotations. I'm impressed!

Wow! What a complete, well-designed effort. I will be book marking your page for future reference, especially when asked for support of my assertions as I attempt to awaken our district to the effectiveness of planned presentation and relevance. Thank you for the boost.

Awesome! You have certainly set a superb example of web design along with an outstanding lesson/unit on organizers. In social science we continuously give specific information seek, retrieve and apply strategies for students to use. Using organizers in a cross-curricular lesson for staff development is a great idea as it introduces a new skill while reinforcing another.
